Shanelle Porter-Simmons

High achievers don't need more motivation to move — they need a better way to make the decisions that define what's next. Shanelle equips high-achieving leaders to recognize what's shaping their biggest decisions, and to choose their next move deliberately, not automatically.

TWO MASTER'S DEGREES

U.S. MARINE CORPS LT. COLONEL

WORLD-RANKED ELITE ATHLETE

WHY THIS WORK

After twenty years as a Marine Corps officer, Shanelle stood alone at Cape Manzano in Okinawa, watching the sun disappear over the Pacific. From the outside, she had achieved everything she'd worked toward — elite athlete, military leader, executive, respected career. Yet one thought became impossible to ignore: “I just want to be free.”

That moment became the beginning of the work she now shares with high achievers who have built real success and still sense something more calling them forward — not to abandon what they've built, but to decide, deliberately, what comes next.

20+ years of Marine Corps leadership · Two combat tours · Top-15 world-ranked athlete · SHRM-CP certified HR executive · Author of Try a New Path

“The Success Trap is what happens when you remain loyal to a version of success that no longer reflects what you genuinely desire.”

SIGNATURE TALKS

DISRUPTIVE KEYNOTE

The Cost of Competence — When Success Becomes a Cage

Most people calculate the risk of leaving. Few calculate the cost of staying. Shanelle shows high achievers how to recognize when loyalty to an old definition of success is costing more than it returns — and how to act before comfort makes the decision for them.

Ideal for: Women's conferences, leadership summits, ERGs, corporate & government audiences

SIGNATURE KEYNOTE

The Decision Before the Decision — How High Achievers Choose Their Next Move Deliberately

Before any decision is made, something has already shaped it — habit, fear, obligation, identity. Shanelle equips leaders to spot those forces early and act on their next move deliberately, not automatically.

Ideal for: Corporate leadership teams, government & military audiences, universities, ERGs

FRAMEWORK KEYNOTE + WORKSHOP

The P.A.T.H. Method™ — The Strategy for What Comes Next

A repeatable four-part method — Pause, Awaken, Train, Honor the Call — that turns insight into action. Audiences leave equipped to make courageous, strategic decisions through every future season of leadership.

Ideal for: Leadership development programs, retreats, conferences, professional associations

WHAT AUDIENCES LEAVE WITH

- The confidence to make high-stakes decisions deliberately, not automatically
- A repeatable framework — the P.A.T.H. Method™ — for every future decision
- Language to name what's shaping their next move, and the courage to act on it
- One clear, actionable next step they can take immediately

WHAT EVENT LEADERS SAY

“I have watched Shanelle live the principles she teaches. She brings discipline, courage, and authenticity to her work, and her presence invites others to rise with honesty and intention.”

Dina Poma-Barnes — Colonel, U.S. Marine Corps Reserve

High achievers don't need more motivation. They need a better way to make the decisions that define what's next.
